三、閱讀素養題組 20% (每題 2 分)

CPR

Before we talk about CPR, we need to learn about "cardiac arrest." When people experience cardiac arrest, their hearts stop. After that, their brain cells start to die. To save their lives, giving CPR is the first thing to do.

However, not many people can do CPR. This causes a high death rate from cardiac arrest. In the USA, about 320,000 people die from cardiac arrest out of the hospital each year, and 70% of them happen at home. Cardiac arrest can happen to people around us at any time. When we put all the facts together, it is easy to see one thing : Everyone needs to learn to do CPR, even children.

We don't need to be an expert to give CPR, but we do need some education. It is easy to find CPR classes at schools, in hospitals, or even at fire stations, so signing up for one is not difficult at all. When we see people experiencing cardiac arrest, it's everyone's job to help them. Their lives are in our hands.

* cardiac arrest 心臟驟停 heart 心臟 brain cells 腦細胞 death rate 死亡率
 die 死亡 case 案例

1. () What is the writer's main purpose?

Murphy’s Law

Picture it’s breakfast time. You are going to take a bite of nice, warm piece of toast. Then you drop it and it falls, you pray for it to land on the side without butter on. However it lands butter-side down! This is a perfect example of Murphy’s Law.

Did you notice that it always rains when you least expect it? Or when you stand in line at a checkout, why does the line next to yours always seem to move faster? And why does your teacher call on you when you don’t know the answer to a question? If it is possible for something to go wrong, it will go wrong—this is Murphy’s Law.

The lesson behind Murphy’s Law is to be prepared for the worst. So, if you aren’t ready for tomorrow’s test, don’t even think about cheating because you will get caught. Study hard.

* law 定律 pray 祈禱 land 著地 butter 奶油 notice 注意到 expect 期待 seem 似乎是 prepare 預備 get caught 被抓到

4. () Which is NOT an example(例子) of Murphy’s Law?
- (A) When you forget your wallet, someone pays for you.
 (B) You just finished washing your car, and it starts to rain.
 (C) The school bus always comes late when you have a test on that day.
 (D) You need to talk to someone right away, but they aren’t answering the phone.
5. () Which of the following is NOT the lesson from Murphy’s Law?
- (A) Always have more than one plan ready.
 (B) Hope for the best, prepare for the worst.
 (C) Everything will go wrong, so we don’t need to try hard.
 (D) Anything can happen, so we always need to be prepared.

Fake Eyes Protect Cows

Imagine that you are a farmer and keep hundreds of cows. However, large predators like lions come and eat your cows. What will you do to solve this problem? Many people would hunt those lions. This is what farmers in the Okavango Delta in Botswana used to do. They shot the lions with guns, but the problem did not go away. For many years, cows died because of lions, and lions died because of people. The number of lions in Africa has dropped from more than 100,000 in the 1900s to lower than 30,000 in 2020.

Luckily, an Australian biologist named Neil Jordan from the University of New South Wales came up with a smart idea to save both cows and lions. It is to paint eyes on cows butts. In his four-year-study, he followed over 2,000 cows at 14 different farms in the Okavango area. There were 683 with eye-painted butts, but 543 with “X” painted on their butts, and 835 unpainted. The study showed that no cows from the butt-painted group were killed by lions. Jordan was not surprised. He knew before this study that lions usually give up their hunt if they think they’ve been spotted.

Now, farmers in Botswana may not need to shoot lions ever again. Sometimes the best way to solve a problem is not to “kill” it but to understand it and “live” with it peacefully.

Mickey and his friends found a treasure map. Here are the clues on the map.

I went on the trip alone
With treasure in my hand.
To call the treasure by our own,
You must try to reach no man's land.

When there are stars in the sky,
Start to walk to the giant.
If you hear the black monkeys cry,
Quickly turn around and keep quiet.

Keep moving until you see the water shine,
Into the boat you must climb.
Keep rowing until you see the sign,
Jump off the boat because there's no time.

Welcome to no man's land.
Try your best to face your fear.
Here monsters with no legs are all over the island,
And you can find my treasure here.
